

Beer with an engineer

podcast

about the podcast

Beer With An Engineer officially launched on Friday 20 July, 2018. It was created as Dom had become disillusioned by society's perception of engineers and the work they do. Client's wanted cheapest, not the best engineered solution. It had become a race to the bottom.

Mel got to thinking - if there was a way to expose these issues and educate the wider society, maybe a new respect could be found for engineers.

Engineering Heroes

Every week we release a new and amazing episode of Beer With An Engineer.

The content is amazing and filled with so much inspiration that needs to get in front of students to encourage them to consider engineering as a career.

We will select 10 engineers from our existing episodes (5 male, 5 female) and edit them to remove alcohol references and make them 20-30min long.
